Japanese Fan

- Spanish people love to sing and dance. The most famous type of Spanish music is Flamenco in the south of Spain.
- During the hot summer, Spanish ladies cool them selves with a hand-held fan called 'un abanico.'
- One of the most important foods in Spain is rice (arroz). It is the main ingredient in la paella which is one of the most famous traditional dishes of Spain. La paella is cooked in a very big frying-pan called la paellera and traditionally it is cooked outside in the open air. It is a mixture of rice, meat, seafood and vegetables.
- In Spain, the main meal of the day is at lunch time. Shops close during this time for several hours. After lunch, many people rest or take a nap. This is called a 'siesta.'
- In Spain, houses are painted white or a pale colour on the outside. White and light colours reflect sunlight and this helps to keep the house cool inside, especially during the very hot summer.
- The Spanish currency is the Euro.
